THE WIDTSONE AND UTAH COLLECTION OF THE UNIVERSITY OF UTAH.

Self Hist. Surv.

Most of the valuable and rare materials about the Mormons came to the University of Utah Library from Dr. John A. Widtson. The late Dr. Widtson was a Norwegian emigrant to America and a convert to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, commonly called the Mormons. As a young man, he was one of a trio of Cache Valley boys who later assumed positions of educational leadership in the west. His companions were Dr. Franklin West, a dean for many years at the Utah State Agricultural College, and then Commissioner of Education for the L. D. S. Church; and Dr. George Thomas, a professor at the Agricultural College and then for 20 years President of the University of Utah.

These three boys helped finance each other's education. Dr. Widtson was the first to go away and receive a doctorate. His rise upon his return was meteoric. He quickly became president of the Agricultural College, and then after some serious difficulties at the State University, he was called to the presidency at that institution. He reorganized the faculty and administrative structure so well that the framework of government he established carried the University through the next 20 years. At the zenith of a remarkable career in education, from the presidency of the State University Dr. Widtson was called into the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles of the L. D. S. Church. He served in this capacity, traveling over the world on behalf of his religion, for the next 20 years.

Dr. Widtson has been accredited publicly with the importation of foreign students to the Agricultural College and University. A good deal of our Point 4 program with Iran is based upon his pioneering efforts. His knowledge of dry farming and the utilization of water were sufficiently renowned for him to be called as a consultant to the Canadian government as late as 1950.

Dr. Widtson began the collection of Utah and Mormon items personally as soon as he had completed his own education. He urged both the Agricultural College and the State University to do likewise. It was through his efforts that the Agricultural College acquired many of the second copies in the famous Pierce collection. He deeply regretted seeing the bulk of this collection shipped out of the state to an eastern institution. His own collection came to the University of Utah in 1946.

Noteworthy is the fact that while he was an officer of the Mormon Church, he did not limit his collecting to the materials wholly favorable to his own religion. Some of the bitterest and most slanderous volumes were collected along with those which were almost blindly devotional. He was especially careful to collect pamphlet and periodical literature neglected by most collectors.

For many years the few items the University owned remained uncataloged. When an attempt was made to begin the cataloging, it was soon discovered that the Dewey classification system was inadequate for a very large collection on the Saints. As a matter of fact, it might be noted in passing that Mr. Dewey originally was one of those who was somewhat biased against the Mormons. He originally classified them as a non-Christian religion. In fact, his designation of the Latter Day Saints as belonging somewhere between the Jews and the Mohammedans has been accepted by some of our sister institutions and has never been changed in those libraries. The State University from the beginning assigned the Mormons a place among the Christian denominations.

The suggested expansion of the Decimal classification precedes the bibliography, which is arranged alphabetically with subject headings used for each indicated.

It was likewise discovered that subject headings were inadequate. The Mormon Church has theories of its own on scores of items. There are likewise facets of Utah and Mormon history which deserve special listing. Such things as United Order, the Mormon Battalion, and temple work, spring to mind immediately. In devising the classification and establishing subject headings, too much credit cannot be given to Mrs. Ruth Thomson, Mr. Ralph Thomson, Mr. Will Lund, and Miss Chizuko Ishimatsu. Preceding their efforts and partially built upon by them was a classification and subject heading system worked out by Naomi Rich and Edith Rich.

It is hoped that the resultant list of classification numbers and subject headings represent all of the finest and as few as possible of the inconsistencies of earlier efforts.

It would, however, be wrong to imply that this list is in any way perfect. Had it been the result of one person's cataloging, it would have been more consistent. Had no effort been made to put some books into the anti-Mormon category, there would be less ground for criticism. As it is, some will claim that a volume is really objective and misplaced in an anti-Mormon category, while others will point out that some very bitter attacks escape this designation.

Generally speaking, books which not only reject the Mormon theory, but malign the motives of the leaders, are those which are placed in this category. They are the name-calling books, quite largely.

Similarly, an occasional work of fiction will be found in the non-fiction group. In fact, enough inconsistencies were revealed to tempt the compiler of this list to stop and reclassify and recatalog the whole collection. Yet he had to conclude that the result would probably be worse rather than better.

The annotations are designed to give the key thought or the essence of each volume. They do not reflect the opinion of the compiler, but rather the opinion of each author. Comments on the comments will be gratefully received.

If this list can serve as a guide to the classification and cataloging of Mormon materials and to the acquisition of these fascinating items, it will have served some small part of its purpose. If it can also be accepted as a partial memorial to the scholar who assembled most of the materials, it will have achieved an even greater purpose.

Utah items have been included under the headings used to bring out materials of local interest. These are, of course, entered under regular headings, such as: Mining---Utah, as well as Utah---Mining.

It is hoped this list will be of some service to those who collect books as well as to those who use them. Those building fine personal libraries are urged to give some thought to their eventual housing, as did Dr. Widtsoe. Several other great personal libraries in Utah have been broken up and sold piecemeal because of the failure of the collector even to mention them in his will.

289.312 Doctrine and Covenants. The doctrine and covenants, of the Church
1891 of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, containing the revelations given to Joseph Smith, Jr., the Prophet, for the building up of the kingdom of God in the last days. Divided into verses with references, by Orson Pratt, Sen. Salt Lake City, George Q.
Cannon & Sons Co., 1891. 503p.

The latter editions differ from the first mainly in indexing and arrangement. Later editions include Word of Wisdom, officially adopted as Church doctrine many years after its original promulgation.

289.312 Doctrine and Covenants. The doctrine and covenants...with some addi-1946 tions by his successors in the presidency of the church. Salt Lake City, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, 1946. 312p.

The 1835 first edition contained a customary phrasing of title pages of the period "Carefully selected from the revelations of God." Not all revelations given members or leaders became official doctrine. The first publication of compiled revelations was the extremely rare Book of Commandments, published in Missouri in 1833. Most copies were destroyed by a mob.

ENTRIES UNDER UTAH

The entries in the card catalog under Utah are far more inclusive than would be the case of other states. In fact, there has been almost a double entry under place as well as under the ordinary subject heading. Here, again, we have not been wholly consistent. Yet the list which follows is sufficiently inclusive to be of real value to students of Utah history. We have left it arranged under subject headings since the prime interest here will be subject headings rather than author.

Should demand for this list be great enough, it probably can be re-printed and modified. Therefore, criticisms and suggestions will not only be welcome but are likely to influence the format of a future list.
